. A QUERY. To the Editor of the 'CHINA MAIL.'

Hongkong, April 15. Sir, --- A summous is applied for and granted under Ordinance 14 of 1845, Section 3, aub-section 7, against a watchman for being negligent and remiss in the execution of his duty. The Police Magistrate dismisses the case (the defendant ignoring the summons by not appearing) because a watchman is not a domestic servant.

Can you please explain to me why a watchman cannot be prosecuted even if he is not a domestic servant ?--Yours,

ENQUIRER.

[We have made personal enquity into this case. Section 3, sub-section 7, says 'Every person employed as a private guard or watchman who shall sleep on his post or be negligent, remiss or cowardly in the execution of his duty' shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 25. In this case, the watchman had not been negligent, remiss or cowardly. He left employment without giving notice; and there is no law in the Colony to punish other than domes-tic servants for this offence. Hence the dismissal of the summons. We can sympathise with 'Enquirer,' and as his is not the only case that has been before the Magistrate recently with a like result, it THE TIME FOR FINISHING THE appears to be time the Legislature moved THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT HAS Ordinance making it a punishable offence

Having said so much, I will, with your permission, venture a brief explanation as to why this question has been brought up at the present time. First, let me suggest. that those who begin to play with fire have themselves alone to blame if they get

The Parsee Trust Funds, then, were originally invested in the hands of Messra H. N. Mody, F. H. Arjance, H. M. Meant and F. D. REVIEWS. MISTRESS BARBARA CUNLIFFE. By Halliwell Sutcliffe. Unwin's Colonial Library, New Set, No. 104. Fisher Unwin, Paternoster Sq., E.C., 1901.

This delightful chronicle of the days, not very long ago, when the wool factories on the Eastern slopes of the Pennine Chain were in their infancy, and when the innovation was regarded with great disdain by the local gentry, will not fail to give unalloyed pleasure to all who care for, a wellknit story. Very pathetic is the tardy revelation of Squire Canliffe's midnight woolcombing in order to help to pay the interest of the heavy mortgage on his estate. He is a splendid type of the old-world county magnate and gentleman, upright and fearlessly honest as the day, honoured by all, rich and poor alike, yet hiding an empty canner and haughty exclusiveness. Anseress Barbara, his untherless child, is a resh and charming study of a dutiful aughter, who accepts a reputably wealthy over to please her father, while all the line her affections are irretrievably given to another. Mr Sutcliffe's descriptions of he moorland scenery of the West Rading, is well as of the country folk, are unmistable artistic pieces of word-painting; he is a keen, close and accurate observer of nature in her many varying moods and us, bects, and of man. 'Mistars Barbara Conliffe,' which, by the way, was just made a highly successful serial appreciance in the select columns of the Tones' Weekly Edition, is in every way a notable addition to current fiction. It will sensibly and worthily add to its author's reputation. The Discovery of the Future, By H. G. Wells. London; T. Fisher Unwin. The title of this book is rather misleading. It is really a sequel to the author's earlier volume 'Anticipations.' It is an attempt to say what the feelings and thoughts and powers of the men of tomorrow will be.' The method of the lecturer is a safe one. By a careful study of the past and present, he infers what the great to-morrow will be. 'T-suppose the	the practical non-existence of the future. If the author means by the future in this sentence not simply the to-morrow of the human race but the more ordinary and common acceptance of the term than the reasoning is very able. If that is not his meaning, it is hard to see what he is driving at. He is a firm believer in the destiny of humanity. Worlds may freeze and suns may perish, but there stirs something in man that can never die again. From this we infer that Mr Wells must be a believer in the spiritual feture of humanity, for if such terrible cataclysms as he suggests as being possible were to happen, humanity in the sense of flesh and biood would certainly perish. Although dealing with a subject that many would call too deep if not dull the book is written in a bright and charming style. COUCHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN. Wise) said this was purely a question of identity. The prisoner was banished as from the 6th May, 1897, for five years. He returned to the Colony on 27th March this year. It was only a short time within the five years, but prisoner did not set up the defence of having made a mistake. He simply stated that he was not banished at Evidence of identity was given by the Gaol authorities and the Police. Evidence that he had some hundred of sears on him and why was he to be convicted on that? Continuing, he said the warder threatened to strike him, and he then said his name was Fung Fu.

The jury returned a unanimous verdict of guilty, and His Lordship passed sentence of twelve months' hard labour.

COUNTERFEIT COIN CASE. Li Kung Cheeng was charged with selfing, attering and having in his possession counterfeit silver coin. Prisoner pleaded not guilty, and th same jury was retained. The Acting Attorney General said an informer was sent to the prisoner with a marked coin and obtained 16 counterfeit coins, the face value of which was 99 cents, and for these he paid 50 cents. When the transaction was completed, the constable who had sent the informer appeared on the scene, and the prisoner bolted. The informer joined in the chase, and prisoner dropped his money. The informer picked up thirteen pieces of counterfeit money and handed them to the constable. When the constable caught the prisoner he searched him, and found the marked coins in his possession.

Evidence was led. The jury returned a verdict of guilty or two counts, and prisoner was sent to gaol for five years with hard labour.

PROTECTION OF MISSIONS, MISSIONARIES AND

CONVERTS. A Double-Edged Decree. Perino, April 8. The Imperial Government always wishes to protect its subjects and has been ever anxious to attain this object. We look upon both the ordinary people and the converts in the same light and we always display our impartiality towards them, and have never failed to do our best to bring to our subjects the blessings of peace, so that they might enjoy their lives. Thus we have several times commanded the Viceroys and Governors of the provinces to look after the people so as to keep them at ease and not allow anyone to cause trouble be tween the people and the followers of the foreign religions. Yesterday we received a memorial from Hei-Liang, the Governor of Honan, regarding the disturbance at Piyang-hsien, where missions have lately been burnt and converts murdered. With regard to this matter we have niready issued decrees to arrest and punish the criminals. But we feel that even though we punish then severely after the disturbanco takes place, it is not so good as to check such disturbances beforehand. Since Western people first came to our countrams seem always to reach their desti- Empress Downger and her supporters, the try more than two hundred years have elapsed. With the intention of preaching virtue to our people missionaries have travelled from their homes as far as China through occans from afar, and they have borne many hardships to do so. Moreover, they are benevolently engaged in healing the sick with their medical science gratis, to aid the poor, poverty stricken people. They are all self-sacrificing and only desire to do good to others. There is no reason to ENTIRELY NEW PROGRAMME. To-day doubt the missionaries or to hate them; but still there are many instances of hatred and trouble against them. Even though we have issued stringent decrees warning all against causing such disturthe disposal of all this surplus happiness, achieved in their effort to exterminate the bances, yet obstinate men do not obey us, and ignorant people do not heed our most strictly worded decrees. There must surely be some reason for this. After due investigation we are driven to the bemites very little smaller than themselves, Powers realize that Almighty God is going | lief that all this trouble has been caused by carrying then pickback from morn to eve | to punish the Manchus for their crimes of | fraudulent practises. A woman that is well, in perfect health, is a rarity. The majority of women have some ailment—some disorder of which to complain. They are weak, 'all-tired-out,' broken down, the roses have vanished from their cheeks, the smile from face, the cheerfulness from the voice. They are peaked, pale and puny. The ruby hips are purplish or blanched, the sparkling eye is dimmed and the bewitching charms of youth are faded. This all due to ill-health. Why women should be so unhealthful, space will not permit of discussion here. But it is a fact. Their systems are debilitated, all-run-down and need toning up. Mrs H. G.
